

"CANNED" NERVES, COLD STORAGE EYES ARE NOW ON SALE

Rockefeller Institute Will Supply You With a Piece of Human Heart or Bone.

It was not generally known until today that the Rockefeller Institute in this city is a sort of department store, where may be obtained, properly "canned" and labelled, parts of a human heart, nerves, blood vessels, spleen, many of the smaller glands, the cornea of the eye, various bones of the body and cartilages to be used in repairing diseased human frames.

The announcement was made to the American Medical Association at Atlantic City yesterday by Dr. Alexis Carrel, in charge of the research work of the Rockefeller Institute, who invited the doctors to send in their orders, promising that they would be filled forthwith.

Not long ago a Chicago surgeon needed a cartilage for a knee disease operation. He telegraphed a rush order. The cartilage was shipped by express in a tiny refrigerator, was used, and the patient is now well and walking with it just as if it were his own.

The doctor told his colleagues it had been found possible to make tissues from the dead live and grow nine months after they were taken from a body. For six years the experiments have been going on. A piece of the heart of a chicken pulsed and was alive 36 days after it had been removed. In experimenting he turned from chickens to guinea pigs, then to dogs, next to horses, followed by baboons and finally to man. He now has nine methods of preserving the life in structures removed from the body, which, according to Dr. Carrel, practically revolutionizes the theories of animal life.

In the transfer of tissues and organs under the new method from a dead to a live body no death of the tissue occurs. After they have been made a part of another body the life in them continues as though they had been there from birth. The color and consistency of removed tissues and organs remain perfectly normal for as long as ten months in some cases.

In the course of experiments such tissues were kept in cold storage, where they continued to live and grow until successfully transplanted. The experiments being completed and proved successful, the institute is now prepared to furnish the above-named articles on short notice. All a surgeon has to do is to break the seal of the refrigerator, taping on the new organ or whatever it is, and it will soon become as valuable a part of the patient as if it had always belonged to him.

KILLED BY ASH HOIST.

James McCalva, twenty-eight years old, of No. 116 Prospect street, Brooklyn, was crushed to death just before midnight when operating an elevator loaded with ashes in the basement of the New York Telephone Building, No. 12 Corbin street, by being caught between the floor of the elevator and the sidewalk. The one hundred young women operators in the building were kept in ignorance of McCalva's death. A surgeon from the Volunteer Hospital pronounced McCalva dead and the body was removed to the Greenwich street police station.

SAVED FROM TITANIC, INJURED AT POLO AND VERY LIKELY TO DIE

William E. Carter Is Thrown in Game Played at Bryn Mawr.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—William E. Carter, society man and one of the Titanic survivors who escaped in the same boat with J. Bruce Ismay, was probably fatally injured yesterday at Bryn Mawr in a polo game between the Bryn Mawr "Hendelers" and the Philadelphia Country Club "B" team. The accident occurred in the fourth period. Carter had been playing a brilliant game and was endeavoring to make a sharp turn to ride off E. Lawber Stokes, when his pony fell. Carter went to the ground his head bent forward and the pony rolled over him. For almost half an hour he lay on the playing field with three physicians working over him. They were unable to bring him back to consciousness and he was taken to the Bryn Mawr Hospital, where he still is unconscious. Dr. Gimbels, who is in charge, declares he is suffering from internal injuries and probably concussion of the brain. In the first of the games the Philadelphia Country Club team defeated the Bryn Mawr team in the first match for the Gough Cup 1914 to 1915. Harrison for Bryn Mawr and Downing and Randolph for the Country Club played brilliant polo. In the second game the Country Club "B" team defeated the Bryn Mawr "Hendelers" 12 goals to 3 goals. Herbert W. Lloyd succeeded Mr. Carter after the accident.

Fireman Tries to Slide Down Pole and Is Killed by Fall.

Ident. J. T. Balak of a Chicago fire company dreamed there was a fire alarm, and rushed to his sleep to slide down the brass pole from his quarters on the second floor. He fell instead of sliding and was killed.

THIEVES LIVED IN HOME.

Chicago Couple Find $50,000 of Valuables Gone When They Return.

CHICAGO, June 6.—When Samuel W. Allison and wife returned from California today they found that their home in a fashionable south side neighborhood had been robbed and had also been lived in by thieves. Paintings, Oriental toys and rugs and a collection of furs, all said to be valued at $50,000, were taken.

The house had been boarded up for the winter and the thieves are believed to have lived in the house for many days, taking away the property at leisure.

GIMBELS

A Decisive Clean-up of Embroidered Robe Patterns

The rainiest May brings a silver lining in June. Here are several hundred charming semi-made Robes, made to our order in the prevailing fashions, to sell at prices that were already specially low. But the dismal weather spoiled our plans, so we reduced the remainder of the robes so emphatically that, cool as they are, they will be sure of a warm welcome.

One of their chief beauties, apart from the delicate white or colored embroidery or bands of ratine lace, is the fact that it requires but little work to make them ready to wear.

At $4, Were Specially Priced at $7.50 and $9
Robes of white French Voile, with border designs, embroidered in colors.
At $6.50 and $7.50, Were Specially Priced at $8.50 and $9
Robes of white French Voile, with white fillet lace, or ecru embroidery and fillet lace bands.

At $9.50, Were Specially Priced at $12
This is one of the most remarkable groups in the offering. At their former price, $12, these Robes were about a third below their real value. Of a beautiful quality of white voile, with handsome border of white fillet net, and hand-embroidered floral design, in white, outlined with white, colors or black.

At $9.50 & $10.50, Were Specially Priced at $11.25 & $13.50
Ecru Voile Robes, with wide bands of ecru ratine lace, in Van Dyke effects, combined with floral embroidery designs. Main Floor
